City of Austin Equity Assessment Tool (DRAFT)

CITY POLICY

This Equity Assessment Tool is a protocol that will systematically integrate purposeful consideration and consciousness of how our decisions as city government can have a positive or negative impact on racial equity in our community. This is particularly applicable when considering budget and programmatic decisions. The tool provides a structure for the City to operationalize equity in everything we do. The Equity Assessment Tool is a general set of questions to guide city departments in assessing how budgets and planning might burden communities of color. The use of an Equity Assessment Tool allows us to evaluate the equity and social impacts of budget requests to ensure programs, projects and other investments help reduce disparities, promote service level equity, and improve civic engagement.

BACKGROUND

Like many cities in the south, Austin's history of racial inequity sparked by segregationist policies in the early 20th century have continued to negatively impact the city's communities of color into today. While Austin was most recently recognized by US News as the Best Place to Live in the U.S., the city consistently makes national lists as a city with severe inequality. In 1950, Austin was fourth in the country for the most income inequality. In 2015, the Martin Prosperity Institute listed Austin as the most economically segregated city in the country. Legacies of displacement by wealthier white Austinites and lack of access to opportunities for people of color has perpetuated racial inequity.

In an effort to address racial inequity in Austin, City Council passed Resolution No. 20150507-027, which directed the City Manager to evaluate the impact of existing city policies and practices on equity and develop an Equity Assessment Tool that can be used across City departments during the budget process in order to address equity challenges in the City. The Council's goal is to implement an Equity Assessment Tool and new policies to help identify and address the inequities that disproportionately impact the quality of life for low-income communities in Austin, which are disproportionately communities of color.

When fully implemented, the Equity Assessment Tool will aid City of Austin departments in:

- Focusing on human centered design and building institutional empathy
- Engaging residents in decision-making, especially those adversely affected by the current conditions
- Bringing conscious attention to racial inequities, potential externalities, and unintended outcomes before decisions are made
- Helping avoid or minimize adverse impacts and unintended consequences; and
- Affirming our commitment to equity, inclusion, and diversity

Appendix A: History

To know where we are going, we must first know where we have been. Learning about past inequities and social justice issues in our community can shed light on not repeating the same mistakes

Appendix B: Steps to Building Equity

The mission of the City of Austin Equity Office is to provide leadership, guidance, and insight on equity to improve the quality of life for Austinites and achieve the vision of making Austin the most livable city in the nation for all. We strive to build and sustain a culture of equity across our city to be embedded in everything we do by tackling tough issues within City government such as institutional racism and implicit bias. Creating a culture of equity will ensure that our city is engaged with all residents, meeting their needs effectively, and minimizing the unintended negative consequences of our decisions.

Consider the following seven steps for focusing on equity within your budget:

1. Know the History: Consider historical events that have negatively impacted communities of color. Acknowledge them and create space for communities to share as to not repeat the same mistakes.
2. Develop the Proposal: What is the policy, program, practice or budget decision under consideration? What are the desired results and outcomes?
3. Monitor Data: What's the data? What does the data tell us?
4. Engage the Community: How have communities been engaged? Are there opportunities to expand engagement?
5. Analysis and strategies: Who will benefit from or be burdened by your proposal? What are your strategies for advancing racial equity or mitigating unintended consequences?
6. Implementation: What is your plan for implementation?
7. Accountability and communication: How will you ensure accountability, communicate, and evaluate results?
